3rd Annual Pennsylvania Fire Safety Summit November 21 – 22, 2019

Empty Shoes

Tammy Peavy – Mississippi State Fire Marshal's Office – Jackson Mississippi

The program incorporates some of the topics listed below (sprinklers, grants, history, education) and then some. It is a bit of a guilt trip (I have left grown men crying) to prompt leaders in the fire service to concentrate more on prevention efforts than suppression. But I don't leave them with the desire to do more without providing them with tools to get started. I know your audience is pretty sold on prevention, but we could take more of a train-the-trainer approach. Attendees could use the information to help get buy-in from leaders that might not be quite as sold on prevention as they need to be. It can also help a seasoned educator look at their programs with a different eye.

Teaching Fire Safety Through History Lessons

Tim Kelly – Deputy Chief Princeton FD/Devens FD – Princeton, Massachusetts

This Program will be reviewing a program called "The History of Fire in America" that we have used with Junior High, High School Students and adult groups. This program is based on the idea that we can give students a practical use of a History lesson by seeking answers to Fire Safety problems by reviewing the fires of the last 115 years. We approach students by asking them to learn from the past and look at cases in history where we have made tragic mistakes by not learning from History. We will review the program in hopes that each attendee can take a copy home and use it in their jurisdiction. This program has been used successfully with adults and teens as a way to understand why we have some of the fire codes we do and which historical fires led to the changes in the codes.

Grants 101

Suzanna Syzdek – Community Development Administrator – Clifton Park & Halfmoon Emergency Corps

Looking for some money to get a new program off the ground? Want some funding to expand a current initiative? Need training or professional services but can't afford to pay for them? Grant funding might be the answer! This session will cover the basic components of a grant proposal and review the best practices for researching potential funders and preparing a grant application. It will also discuss the latest trends in grant funding and discuss the importance of data and evaluation in getting funded. The session will also briefly cover some of the basic principles of grant management that can increase your chances of future funding. Finally, the presentation will offer some useful tips and tricks from a seasoned grant writer to help you get started!

Engineered Wood I-joint Course

Robert Neale – Integra Code Consultants

This program identifies the features and benefits of wood I-joists which explains the prevalence in the market. The program also explains UL fire testing that identified the fire performance failures or light frame floor assemblies which led to changes in the floor protection requirements of the International Residential Code® (IRC®). Those IRC® protection requirements are explained. Alternate methods of protecting I-joint assemblies per ICC-ES® Acceptance Criteria AC14 are explained along with the details of acceptable installation of specific assemblies. A statewide survey of fire marshal is reported to give attendees a sense of peer consensus on acceptable methods of protecting wood I-joint floors.
